

New Year's Thanks

It is little short of amazing how The Journal of Clinical Psychiatry has grown and continues to grow in recent years—in stature, impact, and number of submissions. Manuscripts come from colleagues throughout the world and are testimonials to hard work, commitment, and a never-ending passion to help patients in need.

Editing JCP has been an enormous privilege for me for almost 20 years. I have been honored to form close working relationships with Dr. John S. Shelton and the superb and dedicated staff of Physicians Postgraduate Press, Inc., who are wonderful people as well as talented, effective professionals. I am also indebted to Pat Adams, who does a wonderful job staffing our editorial office in Tucson.

In the last few years, Drs. Marlene P. Freeman and Melissa P. DeBello have joined me as editors. Each has added a specialized section, and, in addition to bringing their creative talents and energies to the Journal, Marlene and Melissa serve as paragons of a new generation of academic psychiatrists.

Needless to say, the growing volume of submissions has required an increased need for the generous and altruistic services of peers to review manuscripts. The publisher, all of the editors, and I are deeply grateful for the anonymous reviews contributed by the following colleagues in 2006.

Alan J. Gelenberg, M.D.
Editor in Chief
